Speaker Bio

Nina Gerber is a postdoctoral researcher at TU Darmstadt and within ATHENE – the German National Centre for Applied Cybersecurity. Her research interests are primarily in the areas of user-centered privacy & security with a focus on social aspects ad psychological factors of privacy and security, UX design, and persuasion. Her previous projects at TU Darmstadt and the Karlsruhe Institute of Technology included the development of usable privacy protections for IoT-equipped environments, strengthening user participation in smart cities, research on user acceptance and security perception of different authentication schemes, psychological aspects of the privacy paradox, and privacy support for mobile users.